The Prime Minister called on all competent institutions to take measures for early detection and prevention of the spread of coronavirus and noted that the Federal Government has also set aside money for the purchase of necessary materials. He called on the citizens to respect the measures and recommendations for protection, and noted that in the newly created situation, he is in constant contact with the Council of Ministers of BiH and the Government of the Republika Srpska.

- There is no room for panic, but together we must take and respect appropriate measures - concluded the Prime Minister of the Federation of BiH.

Federal Minister of Health Vjekoslav Mandić also addressed the press conference and said that the amendments to the Law on Public Procurement will enable all health care institutions, not only clinical centers, to urgently procure the necessary equipment aimed at protecting the health of the population in the new situation.

The Deputy Prime Minister of the FBiH, also the Minister of Finance Jelka Miličević, stated at the press conference that measures for the protection of jobs, public revenues and the banking sector were agreed at the session.

She announced joint measures for rescheduling loans of economic entities and citizens, as well as a set of activities related to the tax system, as well as the formation of a guarantee fund so that economic entities could obtain loans from commercial banks.

Milicevic also announced the formation of a dedicated credit line for current business activities that are severely affected by the new circumstances.

The Deputy Prime Minister also claims that this is only the first set of measures because it will take effort, when the situation calms down, to return to the situation as it was at the end of last year.

Deputy Prime Minister, Minister of Labor and Social Policy Vesko Drljaca also said at the press conference that measures to preserve the economy were agreed at the session, which means that employers will shorten working hours for employees if necessary or organize work in shifts, or leave the possibility of working from home to employees if there are legal and other conditions for it.

Federal Minister of Trade Zlatan Vujanovic especially emphasized that active price control is in force in FBiH because after March 5, there were cases of uncontrolled escalation, contrary to the rules in crisis situations. Immediate control and sanctioning of violators are planned, he concluded.

Director of the Federal Administration for Inspection Affairs Anis Ajdinovic, also a participant in the session, told reporters that enough sanitary inspectors are deployed at the borders of Bosnia and Herzegovina, who will monitor measures of isolation and restricted movement of passengers entering BiH, and that twenty-four-hour control of sanitary inspectors to be covered by 'lower' border crossings, in co-operation with the Border Police.

According to Ajdinović, the measures also mean making official notes and criminal liability for persons who do not follow the rules.

- We keep the borders under control - said Ajdinović, among other things, and called on citizens to refrain or postpone travel until "this critical period" passes, and those who should be in temporary isolation, to abide by the rules and act responsibly towards themselves and others.

The Prime Minister of the Herzegovina-Neretva Canton Nevenko Herceg, noting that there are no confirmed cases of coronavirus in the area, said at a press conference that Herzegovina is not an "isolated island" and that certain measures have been taken in time, and that the cantonal crisis headquarters ambushes regularly.

Herceg announced an extraordinary session of the cantonal government for tomorrow morning, so that the measures agreed at the session would be harmonized with the federal level.

Herceg especially addressed the media with a request not to create panic and added that the measures are too serious, but also that the goal is to adapt life to the new circumstances and that appropriate activities and measures will be adopted uniformly to respond to possible coronavirus pandemic effects.

One of the participants in the session, Mario Nenadić, the Prime Minister of Sarajevo Canton, believes that there is a positive reaction on the stage at the federal level, including Bosnia and Herzegovina, which has shown how to make decisions in crisis situations.

In addition to the need for public spending balanced with the new situation, Nenadić announced the return of migrants from the streets to the accommodation facilities provided for that and concluded that, all in all, there is no room for panic because "everything is under control."

On behalf of the Association of Employers of FBiH, Adnan Smailbegović addressed the press conference, stating that the measures of the Federal Government to support the economy in the current situation are welcome, but that much more should be done to preserve the economy.

Smailbegović appealed for truck drivers who transport goods in cross-border traffic to be exempted from the measure of fifteen days of isolation. Many countries do not cancel orders even in the current circumstances, he noted.

The president of the Federation of Independent Trade Unions of BiH, Mevludin Bektic, also a participant in the session, appealed for the protection of workers, their jobs and salaries in the new situation, while the president of the FBiH Chamber of Commerce Mirsad Jasarspahic
